Lex Mundi Offers More Than 120 Guides to Doing Business

(Houston- September 13, 2005) – More than 120 Guides to Doing Business are now available to the public on the Lex Mundi website. The publications have been prepared by Lex Mundi member law firms around the globe and are available free of charge at www.lexmundi.com/guides .

The Guides to Doing Business provide a comprehensive overview of the business and legal environments in more than 120 jurisdictions and are an excellent resource for professionals around the world. The Guides to Doing Business were specifically developed as a resource for businesses operating across geographic borders. They provide important country, state or province-specific information needed to plan international business strategies and to quickly research new business markets.

Each Guide follows a similar outline to facilitate detailed research and to make comparisons among jurisdictions easier. The Guides address key jurisdictional business and legal issues. Topics covered in the Guides to Doing Business include investment incentives, import/export regulations, exchange controls, taxation, labor laws and regulations, procedures for establishing and terminating a business; and alternative business structures.

Lex Mundi is the world's leading association of independent law firms. The association has more than 155 member firms around the world, representing more than 16,000 lawyers. The organization provides for the exchange of professional information about the global practice and development of law, facilitates and disseminates communications among its members and improves the members' abilities to serve the needs of their respective clients. Member law firms are located throughout North America, Europe, Latin America, the Caribbean, Asia and the Pacific, the Middle East and Africa. More information on Lex Mundi and its member firms can be found at www.lexmundi.com .
